THROUGH HISTORY AND FUTURE INITIATIVES OF THE MODEL FINISHING SCHOOL, TRIVANDRUM

On August 29, 2008, the Model Finishing School was established at PMG, Thiruvananthapuram, under the auspices of the Institute of Human Resource Development (IHRD). The institution was founded with the primary aim of equipping students graduating from engineering colleges and similar educational establishments with the skills necessary to thrive in the professional world.

In its inception, the Model Finishing School focused on enhancing students' proficiency in English language, providing foundational training in software applications commonly utilized in the corporate sector, and offering personality development programs designed to prepare candidates for successful job placements. This approach yielded positive results, with many graduates securing positions in leading Indian software firms such as Infosys and UST Global.

Over the years, the institution's mission has evolved to include the training of employees from various government organizations, including Public Works Department (PWD), District Collectorate, Motor Vehicles Department (MVD), Kerala State Electricity Regulatory Commission (KSERC), and others. This shift reflects a commitment to meet the growing needs of the public sector workforce.
